INSTITUTE.

. CONSULTATIONS IN ALL CASES, FREE.

. CURES GUARANTEED, OR NO PAY REQUIRED

. IN ALL CASES WHERE CONFIDENCE IS REQUIRED THE UTMOST SECRECY MAINTAINED.

The above rules, established by Dr. J. C. Young in 1856, and which have done so much to secure the reputation of this Institute, are still adhered to, affording those in need of medical aid, the certainty of cure and the utmost confidence.

There is nothing of so great importance to the sick as to know where to find a physician whose skill and humanity give assurance of proper and delicate treatment. The Doctor would respectfully call the attention of those of both sexes who are suffering or in trouble to the invariable success that has marked the career of the Institute in the seventeen years of its existence.

It is unnecessary in this connection to enumerate all the complaints treated at the Institute, but the Doctor feels it his duty to call especial attention to that terrible scourge,

SEMINAL WEAKNESS,

That is sapping with its insidiousness the very life of its victims; in the treatment and cure of which the Institute has earned so enviable a reputation.

READ! READ

I am aware that by dwelling upon so unin[illegible] the decay of manly vigor through the loss of vital principle of life, the ignorant may [illegible] but the desire to point out to those who [illegible] the true cause of their [illegible] to be found into [illegible] the terrible disease of Seminal Weakness [illegible] the practical specialist who devotes his time [illegible] can tell; but its presence can be [illegible] by noting the following [illegible] of the back and limbs, [illegible] power; nervous [illegible], accompanied by hot hands [illegible] breath, flushes of the [illegible] of the mind; loss of memory [illegible]; colorless; slight [illegible] excitement; trembling; palpitation of the heart [illegible] variable temper, etc.

[illegible] MAN, if you experience any of the [illegible] above, pause to [illegible] in which you [illegible] You may feel [illegible] you have ever [illegible] the vice of [illegible] you have the seeds of [illegible] mining [illegible] later, dash the fair edifice of your [illegible] your helpless object being [illegible] itself at once. There is [illegible] the patient is being treated for [illegible] of the Heart, Lungs, Brain, or [illegible] he sinks into a [illegible] debility that [illegible] the list of the [illegible] of the terrible [illegible]

Step in the bend form and languishing step, the [illegible] of the [illegible] vice! Mark the [illegible] plaint in the hollow cheek and [illegible] is one of the premonitory [illegible] it is [illegible] off, but it grows [illegible] to pursue his [illegible], and restless [illegible] days of [illegible]

It is the nature of the complaint to [illegible] that leave the poor victim but little hope [illegible] and blast your [illegible] aspirations.

[illegible] natural in [illegible]. This is an error of the first magnitude, for [illegible] the exigencies of the [illegible] and he finds himself in a deplorable [illegible] there is but the slightest hope of [illegible] would result in offspring, they [illegible] decrepid, and degenerate. This is [illegible] both sexes, whether married or [illegible]

If you feel any of the symptoms [illegible] or if your acts have been such [illegible] them, but by [illegible] application [illegible] only hope of health and happiness. The [illegible] or other deleterious drugs—cures, when [illegible] time, always [illegible] and full and [illegible]

The [illegible] and of every condition [illegible]

PERSONS AFFLICTED WITH VENEREAL.

During the seventeen years since the [illegible] the Institute, the number of cases of Venereal that have been treated [illegible] in the world, and the [illegible] that has been [illegible] of treatment,

Without Mercury or other Evil Drugs,

[illegible] a cure in recent cases, in a [illegible] and finds no difficulty in curing those of long [illegible] the patient to such [illegible] the slightest suspicion or [illegible] whether in-doors or [illegible] need not be changed. Cures always [illegible] pay required

IMPORTANT TO FEMALES.

When a female is in trouble or afflicted with [illegible] or surgical assistance [illegible] Where is there a physician competent to [illegible] and whose respectable standing in society [illegible] him to the confidence of the community [illegible] understanding how imperatively necessary [illegible] are, feels called upon to interpose [illegible] calling the attention of the afflicted to the fact that [illegible] Professor of Obstetrics and Female Diseases [illegible] years, and is fully qualified to administer in all [illegible] both medically and surgically not in a superficial [illegible] in so thorough a manner as years of study and [illegible] both in hospitals and private families—can make [illegible] from the hands of the unqualified [illegible] Therefore families can rely upon him [illegible] All in affliction can find in him one who [illegible] with and befriend them in trouble [illegible] whose secrecy the utmost confidence can be placed [illegible] by letter or otherwise free. [illegible] all weakness and trouble incidental to the [illegible] private apartments are provided when desired, [illegible] had all the advantages of unremitted attention [illegible] doctor, and the most skillful and and faithful [illegible]

To CORRESPONDENTS.—Persons either male or female residing in the interior are often deterred from [illegible] Doctor because they cannot spare the time [illegible] of a visit to the city [illegible] a plain statement of the symptoms and [illegible] upon the complaint, will enable him to [illegible] them so that they can be cured at home. [illegible] any false delicacy about writing as no matter [illegible] nature of their complaint as the communication will be treated [illegible] by no one except the Doctor and will be [illegible] utmost confidence, so be then be returned or destroyed [illegible] Consultation Free.

Grant's Letter to His Father

[From the New York Tribune Editorial 12th]

"I beg you will destroy this letter" wrote Gen Grant to his father but we are very glad that a better use was made of that remarkable document which we print to day It was written by Grant from Milliken's Bend Louisiana during the Vicksburg campaign and placed in our hands by a gentleman who furnished it from a collection of autographs We print it word for word unaltered and consider that its date and the circumstances under which it was written give it the highest value as a declaration of Grant's personality

All about the General we know is that we know nothing but success But there never was a military chieftain to whom more truly applies the line And for Achilles self the sword ends his spear The people questioned Grant during the war and he answered with strokes not words

What are your plans in the West? His silent reply was to hand over Vicksburg and her arms to the Government What do you propose to do in the East? He answered by sheathing his sword and giving the nation peace He was reticent in words, not in deeds and throughout his wonderful career seems to have modestly shrunk behind his own fame making a screen of the success which other men would have used as a pedestal The name of the great Captain was written in the stars of our flag like the constellated Perseus in the sky, and so dazzling was the light that men could hardly see the simple honest modest nature of the man But slowly we are learning to know Grant as we at last knew Lincoln and every discovery gives him a new claim upon our confidence He is not only great because of his victories but would have been great without them unknown in the obscurity of Galena

In this remarkable letter Grant speaks for himself and with a frankness which shows how very reluctant he was to write of his own deeds and how greatly he disliked to defend himself even when unjustly attacked Though it was written to his father in strict confidence he was careful to ask that it should be destroyed Why should he have desired this? Every word is to his credit That is the very reason why he did not wish that it should get before the public. This singular desire to keep himself in retirement seems as much due to natural pride as to his modesty, if the American people were not satisfied with his acts he had no intention of convincing them with his words But if this letter had been known at the time, the World would never have dared to circulate that story about Grant's collusion with cotton speculators which miserable as it is and too contemptibly false for even his enemies to credit, is raised to the dignity of a first class Democratic argument. This is not at all strange, in a political campaign something must be said against the opposing candidate and when fact can not injure falsehood may At Gettysburg after Lee had exhausted his supply of shot and shell he charged his cannon with stones The World being destitute of argument throws dirt and mud But it cannot throw far enough to reach the man who said that all army followers engaged in speculating in the misfortunes of their country should be drafted at once and put in the first forlorn hope"

When Grant wrote this letter he was executing a great military plan—which finally won us possession of the Mississippi and with it the whole Southwest—against the judgment of his fellow commanders and almost against the orders of the Government Sherman felt compelled to protest to Grant against perseverance in the movement Lincoln earnestly desired that Grant should abandon Vicksburg, and join Banks at Port Hudson the North looked with distrust and the South with joy, upon the bold and mysterious plans which the best soldier in the army condemned Had Grant failed in this campaign the result would have been terrible disaster to the country and absolute ruin to himself Crossing the Mississippi was as daring an act as the crossing of the Rubicon. But this letter shows that Grant was as calm and confident amid this universal doubt and fear as if the victory had already been won "It is painful to me,' he wrote, "as a matter of course to see the course pursued by some of the papers But there is no one less disturbed by them than myself" He knew it folly to attack the enemy's fortifications as long as he had the prospect of turning them Immediate attack might have been fatal defeat

Full of hope for complete success," he did his best and that was better than the most sanguine dare expect Vicksburg fell

But in that long period of national suspense when Horatio Seymour, like a sick raven on a dead tree croaked of nothing but misery and ruin who was the single man who saw invisible victory, like a far off star in the darkness unknown to others, but flaming across his path and brightening as it approached? It was the one man upon whom all the responsibility rested and who had not only accepted but had created and cheerfully assumed it Grant knew in April what the nation could hardly realize in July, that the road to Vicksburg was by way of Milliken's Bend, and when Pemberton delivered up his sword, Grant was, perhaps, the only man in the country who was not in the least astonished.

'I never expect to have an army under my command whipped, unless it is very badly whipped and can't help it." When Grant wrote these words he could scarcely have anticipated that he would be called upon to cross swords with Lee, and to take command of an army which, under McClellan and McDowell, and Burnside, and Pope and Hooker had been repeatedly defeated But the self confident expression was right—the army he commanded never was whipped and this straightforward assurance to his father that disaster was not to be feared throws a new light upon the man. He did not blunder into success He succeeded by never placing himself in a position to be defeated And during this long and weary time, when he was struggling with his most dangerous enemy—the general ignorance of his greatness and the general distrust with which his superiors regarded him—Grant's highest ambition was to prove himself equal to anything expected of him He was ready to accept a humbler position he did not seek power All his aims were his country's "I want and will do my part toward it to put down the rebellion in the shortest possible time without desiring any other recognition than a quiet approval of my course" That approval he unquestionably has and if it is not quiet Grant must blame the American people who think that, though he may be properly silent concerning his wonderful success silence in them would be ingratitude and shame

A Letter from General Grant

The following letter never before published was furnished to the New York Tribune by a gentleman who had preserved it in a book of autographs It was written by General Grant to his father during the Vicksburg campaign It is fortunate that so excellent a letter was not destroyed

MILLIKEN'S BEND La, April 21 1863

DEAR FATHER—Your letter of the [illegible]th of April has this day reached me I hasten to answer your interrogations When I left Memphis with my past experience, I prohibited trade below Helena Trade to that point had previously been opened by the Treasury Department I give no permits to buy cotton, and if I find any one engaged in the business I send them out of the department and seize their cotton for the Government I have given a few families permission to leave the country and to take with them so far as Memphis, their cotton In doing this I have been deceived by unprincipled speculators, who have successfully smuggled themselves along with the army in spite of orders prohibiting them, and have been compelled to suspend this favor to persons anxious to get out of Dixie

I understand that Government has adopted some plan to regulate getting the cotton out of the country I do not know what plan they have adopted but am satisfied that any that can be adopted except for Government to take the cotton themselves and rule out speculators altogether will be a bad one I feel all army followers who are engaged in speculating off the misfortunes of their country and really aiding the enemy more than they possibly could do by open treason should be drafted at once and put in the first forlorn hope

I move my headquarters to New Carthage to morrow This whole country is under water except strips of land behind the levees along the rivers and bayous, and makes operations almost impossible I struck upon a plan which I thought would give me a foothold on the east bank of the Mississippi before the enemy could offer any great resistance But the difficulty of the last one and a half miles next to Carthage makes it so late now that the enemy cannot fail to discover my plans I am doing my best and am full of hope of complete success Time has been consumed but it was absolutely impossible to avoid it An attack upon the rebel works at any time since I arrived here must have inevitably resulted in the loss of a large portion of my army if not in an entire defeat There were but two points of land Haines Bluff and Vicksburg itself out of water at any place from which troops could march These are thoroughly fortified and it would be folly to attack them as long as there is a prospect of turning their position I never expect to have an army under my command whipped unless it is very badly whipped and can't help it but I have no idea of being driven to do a desperate thing to quiet the howling of the press It is painful to me as a matter of course to see the course pursued by some of the papers But there is no one less disturbed by them than myself I have never sought a large command and have no ambitious ends to accomplish Were it not for the very natural desire of proving myself equal to anything expected of me, and the evidence my removal would afford that I was not thought equal to it I would gladly accept a less responsible position I have no desire to be an object of envy or jealousy nor to have this war continue I want and will do my part toward it to put down the rebellion in the shortest possible time without expecting or desiring any other recognition than a quiet approval of my course

I beg that you will destroy this letter at least do not show it

Julia and the children are here but will go up by the first boat I sent for her to come down and get instructions about some business I want attended to and see no immediate prospect of attending to myself ULYSSES

A "Tyrant" and a "Butcher"

On the 4th of July, 1863 when Horatio Seymour was derisively asking a New York mob Where are the victories that were promised us?" and instigating the riots that broke out a fortnight afterwards General Grant was receiving the surrender of Vicksburg and of the Mississippi, after one of the most heroic and skillful campaigns in military history On the 13th President Lincoln wrote to him the following letter

'MY DEAR GENERAL —I do not remember that you and I ever met personally I write this now as a grateful acknowledgment for the almost inestimable service you have done the country I write to say a word farther When you first reached the vicinity of Vicksburg I thought you should do what you finally did—march the troops across the neck, run the batteries with the transports, and thus go below, and I never had any faith except a general hope that you knew better than I that the Yazoo Pass expedition and the like could succeed When you got below, and took Port Gibson, Grand Gulf, and vicinity, I thought you should go down the river and join General Banks and when you turned northward east of the Big Black I feared it was a mistake I now wish to make the personal acknowledgment that you were right and I was wrong

' Yours truly A LINCOLN '

When Grant was entering upon the final and triumphant campaign the President wrote to him as follows on the 30th of April, 1864

"LIEUTENANT GENERAL GRANT—Not expecting to see you before spring opens, I wish to express to you in this way my entire satisfaction with what you have done up to this time so far as I understand it

' The particulars of your plan I neither know nor seek to know You are vigilant and self reliant and, pleased with this, I wish not to obtrude my restraints or constraints on you. While I am very anxious that any great disaster or capture of our men in great number shall be avoided I know that these points are less likely to escape your attention than they would be mine If there be anything wanting which is within my power to give do not not fail to let me know it

' And now with a brave army and a just cause, may God sustain you!

' Yours very truly A LINCOLN "

General Grant replied the next day from his head quarters in the field as follows

Your very kind letter of yesterday is just received The confidence you express for the future, and satisfaction for the past, in my military administration, is acknowledged with pride It shall be my earnest endeavor that you and the country shall not be disappointed From my first entrance into the volunteer service of the country to the present day I have never had cause to complain, have never expressed or implied a complaint against the Administration or the Secretary of War for throwing any embarrassment in the way of my vigorously prosecuting what appeared to be my duty

" Indeed since the promotion which placed me in command of all the armies, and in view of the great responsibility and importance of success, I have been astonished at the readiness with which every thing asked for has been yielded without even an explanation being asked. Should my success be less than I desire and expect, the least I can say is the fault is not with you

" Very truly your obedient servant,

" U S GRANT Lieutenant General "

It is instructive to contrast with this conduct of an odious tyrant and a ferocious butcher the earnest, untiring patriotic devotion to the Union and the Constitution of Toombs Vallandigham Seymour, Cobb Pendleton Forrest and Company All true Conservatives will of course agree with Mr Robert Toombs that the only way to save the Constitution is to defeat Grant, and follow the advice of Mr Robert Toombs by electing Seymour

Who are Democrats

A Question of Veracity Between the Brethren

Ex-Senator Nesmith is evidently growing lukewarm in the cause of Democracy. He was advertised to speak to the unterrified at Salem on Friday night but did not come to time. A special messenger sent to his farm over in Polk failed to bring him. Nesmith is politically sick. He sees that the election of Grant is certain and he is therefore "hedging" in the endeavor to gain favor with the winning side. He now denies that he has ever made any remarks about Grant of a disparaging nature; denies that he ever call'd him a "drunken Democrat," states that the remarks attributed to him by the Herald were never made by him, and that those who have been quoting him as an authority to prove that Grant is a drunken imbecile have lied in their version of the matter. Now although Nesmith is uttering these disclaimers and is seeking retirement until after he learns how the election will result, he shall not be permitted to get off so easily. We have the testimony of a large number of men of both parties who were present at the Democratic barbecue at Salem last July, which fully confirms the statement that Nesmith did say in a speech on that occasion before an audience which the Democrats boasted numbered more than five thousand, that "if the Republicans could support a drunken Democrat (Grant) for the first office the Democrats could support a sober Republican (Blair) for the second." In his speech at Salem on Friday night Rev. Jo. Smith confirmed the statement that Nesmith has been accustomed to call Grant a drunkard. Senator Williams on the previous evening had repelled these slanderous allegations by saying that he had met Grant a great many times and at a great many places for several years past, and that he had never known him to be under the influence of liquor or seen him taste a drop of spirits of any kind. Smith said this testimony was merely negative and amounted to nothing, for Nesmith who was well acquainted with Grant had often seen him drunk, and that inebriety was habitual with him. The testimony of Nesmith who had seen Grant drunk was worth far more than that of Williams who had not seen him in that condition. Now there is a lie out among the brethren, somewhere. Nesmith denies having given currency to these slanderous accusations, and Smith and the rest of the brethren declare that he did make them, and continue to quote Nesmith as an authority to prove the alleged fact of Grant's drunkenness. Nesmith by his duplicity is getting himself into a serious dilemma. Jo Smith and Beriah Brown are not going to permit him to deny his former statements. Nesmith probably thinks that by "going back on" his Democratic friends he will be able to exert some influence at Washington after Grant is inaugurated. Poor Nes! His lustful longings after the "flesh pots" of office are getting him into serious trouble.

Democratic Authority on Gen Grant

In his Salem speech, the other evening Senator Williams quoted Nesmith's recent remarks about Grant being a "drunken Democrat" and unfit to be President and then retorted with tremendous effect by reading from the Congressional Globe the remarks which Nesmith made in praise of Grant in 1864 and the Ex Senator's unqualified declaration that the General was fit for any office and he himself expected to vote for him for the Presidency. But Nesmith was not alone at that time among his Democratic brethren in sounding the praises of Grant. When Congress was debating the bill to revive the grade of General and confer that rank upon General Grant, A. J. Rogers, a Democratic member of Congress, from New Jersey, said:

> "I believe that the mantle of the illustrious Washington may well fall upon the shoulders of Gen Grant. I believe that he has walked in the foot steps of the Father of his country."

Congressman Finck, an Ohio Democrat, also used this language:

> I honor him, sir, not only for his brilliant services in the field, but because of his magnanimity in the hour of triumph, and his genuine modesty.

Pollard, of the Richmond Examiner paid this tribute to General Grant in 1865:

> "He had, with remarkable ability, accorded honorable and liberal terms to the vanquished army. He did nothing to dramatize the surrender; he made no triumphal entry into Richmond; he avoided all those displays of triumph so dear to the Northern heart; he spared everything that might wound the feeling or imply the humiliation of a vanquished foe. There were no indecent exultations, no "sensations," no shows. he required the surrender of his adversary with every courteous recognition due an honorable enemy and conducted the closing scenes with as much simplicity as possible."

In its issue of April 11th, 1865 the New York World says:

> "General Grant's last brilliant campaign sets the final seal upon his reputation. It stamps him as the superior of his able antagonist as well as all the commanders who have served with him in the great campaigns of the last year."

To these extracts it is only necessary to add the fact that the late General Scott, just before his death presented to General Grant a copy of his memoirs, with the appropriate inscription, "From the oldest to the greatest General."

The Democratic revolutionists who are maundering about the distress of the South overlook the fact that the Cotton States under the policy of free labor and equal rights have steadily increased their production of the leading staple of our domestic industry and foreign commerce. The first year after the war, the Cotton States produced for commercial purposes, 1,975,000 bales of cotton. The next year, the production was about 2,000,000. Last year the production was nearly 2,500,000, and the general estimate for the present crop is set down at 3,000,000 bales. Now this has all been accomplished in the face of every possible obstruction which the Executive aided by the revolutionary leaders in the late insurrectionary States, could array against the Constitutional, law making power of the nation. The election of Grant, by bringing the Executive and Legislative Departments of the Government into harmonious action, will put an end to the present conflict of authority at the South. The disunion leaders will subside. National authority, backed by the co ordinate departments of the Government, will prevail throughout the South, and with security to life and property, we may look forward with confidence to seeing the crop, the first year of Grant's Presidential term, reach the old figure of 4,000,000 bales [illegible]

Forty tons of California mustard seed were shipped for New York, by the Golden Age on her last trip.

Pendleton's Baseness

The following paragraph is from a speech delivered at Centralia Illinois, on the 15th September by George H Pendleton. Speaking of the good times we should have if we only had enough greenbacks, he said:

> "This currency pays debts, pays taxes, buys government lands. Suppose you increase it. Take all the currency out in the West beyond Kansas and Nebraska. There are many good acres of land as ever farmer put plow into for every single dollar and a quarter of this circulation. Suppose you do increase the circulation. Suppose farmers can sell corn at $2.50 and wheat $5 per bushel. A man who carries a hod here in Centralia can lay by at the end of a year $100 after supporting his family, and suppose he could locate two good acres of land for every bushel of corn or four for every bushel of wheat the laborer can locate a farm of seventy five acres of land there. I would wish to know how much the farmer and laborer of this county have lost from this inflation? Not a dollar. It makes you rich."

Is it possible to conceive of anything more absurd than this? No baser attempt was ever made by a demagogue to impose on the assumed ignorance of his auditors. Pendleton's plan is to increase the currency so that the laborer may get, nominally twice or thrice as much for his labor as now. But he does not explain how with an inflated currency and wages nominally at high rates the laborer actually receives much less than before. All kinds of commodities go up as the currency is inflated much more rapidly than wages, until if the price of labor were nominally doubled by an increase of the currency, a day's wages would buy much less than now. It is absolutely atrocious for a man like Pendleton to stand up before the people and talk to them like this. It is true that if the currency were inflated there would be no increase in the price of public lands, but thanks to the generous policy of the Republican party, land may already be obtained for nothing under the Homestead Act. Nobody but Pendleton ever discovered that there is a way of getting land cheaper than by paying nothing for it. Pendleton knows very well, for he used to dwell on the matter with great emphasis in his speeches in Congress how disastrous to all classes would be an inflation of the currency. Yet for the sake of a supposed political advantage he goes before an audience among whom he supposes very dense ignorance prevails, and advocates doctrines which he knows would, if put into practice, bring ruin upon every class in the country. He does this to make votes, but he and his base crew will find that the people are not such fools as they have taken them for.

Democratic Financiering

Hon F E Spinner, Treasurer of the United States, in reply to a letter from J Q Thompson of Shelbyville, Indiana revives a fragment of history which many people have forgotten. It beautifully illustrates the achievements of Democratic financiering. In the letter which calls out from the Treasurer this scrap of history, Mr Thompson says:

> "I wish to inquire what has been the practice of the government since its foundation respecting the taxation of government bonds; or, if this information cannot be briefly and conveniently conveyed, permit me to modify my inquiry so that it may cover only the period between March 4, 1853, to March 4, 1861, extending through two historic administrations of the government. I remember that bonds, or other evidences of interest bearing indebtedness, originating in loans then contracted, were issued by the government during the administration of President Buchanan, at a rate of interest in gold of 12 per cent per annum. Were these public securities subject to taxation on an equality with every other species of property?"

Spinner in reply proceeds to quote from decisions of the Supreme Court since 1820, which deny the constitutional power of a State or municipal government to levy a tax on the bonds of the United States, or attack or impair the public credit by taxing it. He shows that under no Administration from Washington to Johnson, has any State ever been allowed to tax national bonds. He then goes on to give the following useful piece of information concerning Democratic financiering:

> "There is a history about this 12 per cent per annum loan that the people should be slow to forget. It was a part of the rebellion itself. Howell Cobb, former Speaker of a Democratic House of Representatives, late Brigadier General in the late army of the late Confederate States of America, and then Mr Buchanan's Secretary of the Treasury, carried these securities in his carpet bag, in blanks, to the city of New York, and, after slandering the stocks, traducing the credit of the government, and announcing his opinion that they never would be paid, but that he must have the money for them at any rate, offered them on the market, and then filled up the interest blanks at such rates as his political friends chose to ask him to insert. Most of them were paid in gold, with the stipulated exorbitant rate of interest added, after I came into this office, and after the war had begun, and when, notwithstanding all this, the government was then obtaining loans at six per cent per annum. This loan was made, too, within a very short time after the same honest Democratic Secretary of the Treasury had been using the funds in the Treasury, intended for the current expenses of the government, in buying up in the market the six per cent bonds of the United States, that had then many years to run to maturity, at about twenty per cent above their par value. Think of it. He bought the unmatured six per cent stocks at 120, and immediately thereafter, in an apparent time of profound peace, and when money was abundant, sold securities, receiving par and stipulating to pay at the end of one year 112.
> "Was Cobb a fool, think you?"
> "Not at all. he knew exactly what he was driving at. He was already, at that early day, a traitor and hoped by his rascally management to so cripple the resources and derange the finances of the government in whose interest and honor he had sworn (for pay) to protect, as to make secession easy and sure. This man, the original 'carpet bagger' is now, as he was then, a leader and leading light in the Democratic party. But this was only a part of the great conspiracy. While Cobb was accomplishing this, his great financial achievement in the interest of the coming rebellion, Thompson, then Secretary of the Interior made away with the Indian annuity trust funds belonging to the government; Floyd, Mr Buchanan's immaculate Secretary of War robbed the North of its forts and arsenals of their arms and munitions of war, and transported them South to be used against the government, and for its destruction, and Toucey, the then Secretary of the Navy, a specimen brick of Connecticut Democracy, fearing the loyalty and patriotism of our naval commanders, ordered our vessels of war to unheard of places in far distant seas, where they could by no possibility be needed, but where they would be beyond the reach of recall by the government in the day of its peril. This is the party and these are the men that now canvass and solicit the votes of an outraged people. Really, their former rascality is outdone by their present impudence."

With Seymour on the track for President, the canvass would be wanting in spirit without Vallandigham on the course for Congress. In accordance with the rule of the perfect fitness of things, the Democrats of the Dayton district have placed that patriot on the track. It was Vallandigham's gushing, true patriotism, stimulated by that of Hampton, Forrest, Preston and other rebel Generals, that secured for Seymour his nomination over Hancock and Hendricks. The harmonies would not be complete without this disinterested patriot was also a candidate for Democratic honors. His nomination, therefore, was a necessity to the Democratic plan.

Ould, the rebel Commissioner of Prisoners, who has recently been pamphleteering in behalf of Seymour and Blair, is the same infamous traitor who, writing to his superiors at Richmond while the exchange was in progress, used the following language:

> "The arrangement I have made works largely in our favor. We get rid of a set of miserable wretches, and receive some of the best material I ever saw."

Rebels and Democrats on the Exchange of Prisoners

The letter of Ould the unrepentant traitor who was Jeff Davis' Commissioner for the exchange of prisoners during the rebellion has of course been accepted by Democrats as a true version of the matter it treats, since it attempts to fix upon President Lincoln, Secretary Stanton and Gen Grant the responsibility for the tortures of our captured soldiers in the pens of Andersonville and other rebel prisons pens. But the recent letter of Gen. S. A. Meredith who was Commissioner for the exchange on the part of our Government for most of the time of which Ould speaks sets the matter in its true light and shows just what sort of a debased lying traitor and creature this Ould the man so much admired by Democrats, is. General Meredith's statement will be believed not only in the North but in the South for while he is known in the North as one of the earliest and most earnest workers in the cause of liberty and justice to all men, he is also known and respected in the South for his lenient and gentlemanly, yet just course in Kentucky, while commander of the Union troops in that Department. Mr Dana of the Sun, whose opportunities as an Assistant Secretary of War were such as to make him acquainted with all the facts relating to the exchange of prisoners, confirms all General Meredith says and adds that what was true while General Meredith was Commissioner was true throughout. According to the sensational letter of Commissioner Ould the Confederate authorities were always ready to exchange prisoners. Of this falsehood Gen. Meredith says:

> "When an unrepentant traitor like Robert Ould has the unblushing impudence to attempt to impose on Northern freemen his vindication of the truth of history, as connected with the late rebellion, or the treatment of our soldiers intentionally starved and slaughtered in rebel pens, I also feel it incumbent on me (as he remarks) to 'make a statement.'
> The first interruption of the cartel was caused by Jeff Davis' message to the rebel Congress Jan 12, 1863, whereby he denounced his determination to deliver all officers of the United States captured after that date to the State authorities to be dealt with according to the laws of those States, providing for the punishment of criminals engaged in inciting insurrection. That is, our officers captured in battle were to be handed over to the State authorities to be hung.
> The second difficulty occurred in relation to negro troops, and the officers commanding them, whom the rebel authorities promised to treat in the same manner, but without taking the trouble to deliver them to the State authorities. In many instances no quarter was granted to that class of troops, or to the officers commanding them. Some were executed without trial, though that mere form would not have benefitted them in the slightest degree. When in August, 1863, I demanded that negro troops and their officers should be treated as other prisoners of war, and exchanged, this 'vindicator of the truth' peremptorily declined, with this remark: 'We (the rebels) will die in the last ditch before giving up the right to send slaves back to slavery.'
> Another cause of the suspension of the cartel was its constant violation by the rebels, in making illegal declarations of exchange, for the purpose of putting men into the field, and there is no doubt whatever that all prisoners paroled by the United States authorities were immediately returned to active duty in the rebel army. Many officers and men captured at Vicksburg were in the battle of Chickamauga. Thus the rebels were making use of our well conducted prisons as recruiting depots for their army. Another insuperable obstacle to returning exchanges was in the matter of paroles. Ould had some 18,000 or 20,000 which he claimed as valid. Most, if not all of these paroles, were taken by the guerillas, bushwhackers and detached commands in the West. No possession was ever had, no delivery was ever made, and no rolls were ever furnished. On the capture of a town by a rebel cavalry raid, the command remained long enough to take the parole of unarmed citizens there, and then decamped leaving the paroled men behind, and forwarding the paroles to Richmond. And the rebels had the assurance to require the United States Government to exchange prisoners who were legitimately captured in battle for such paroles as these!
> On the 25th of November, 1863, I offered to send immediately to City Point 12,000 or more Confederate prisoners, to be exchanged for Union soldiers confined in the South. This proposition was distinctly and unequivocally refused by Ould. And Why? Because the damnable plans of the rebel Government in relation to our poor captured soldiers had not then been fully carried out.
> Let Ould leave the truth of history to take care of itself and vindicate, if he can, the intentional premeditated and barbarous treatment by the rebel authorities of our soldiers in the rebel prison pens."

The Reason of It.

A writer in the National Republican asserts that one of the first things the Southern rebels will demand in the event of the success of the Democracy, will be the payment of the Confederate debt. It is true this is forbidden by the fourteenth amendment, but the Democracy claim that it has not been legally ratified and threaten its nullification. It will be remembered that Wade Hampton in his revelations of the inner workings of the New York Convention, assured his fellow rebels that he was promised if he would not insist upon too much in the platform, that himself and friends should have everything they wanted after the Democratic party regained their lost power. With an unlimited issue of greenbacks to pay off the "bloated bondholders" who lent their money to the Government in its hour of need, it would not be difficult to add a few millions for the discharge of the Southern debt if demanded as the price of support to the Democrats North. It is very certain that the success of the Hampton ticket, and the overthrow of the Southern State governments, which is promised as its first result, would place the rebels in such a position of influence that they could command their own terms. Whether those would be moderate their past history enables us to judge. No doubt one reason why the Oregon seceders are undoing the fourteenth amendment rests in the fact that it forbids the payment of the rebel debt and compensation for slaves.

The Sacramento Bee remarks: "Every man that has a home or a hundred dollars seems to instinctively know that it will be in danger if the shuffling Seymour and the revolutionary Blair shall be elected. All such persons feel that their property and persons will be entirely safe if these candidates shall be defeated and Grant and Colfax chosen to preside over the destinies of the Republic. Hence do we find men of property such as William M. Lent, coming out from the Democracy and throwing their influence on the side of law and order."

As General Grant's enemies ask us to believe their statement that he is wholly incompetent as a military man and entirely unfit to perform any public duty, they might surely inform us why it is that such men as Sherman, Thomas and Meade, who are allowed to possess a good deal of capacity themselves, should believe so profoundly in the ability of Grant. How will Grant's enemies account for this delusion on the part of men so able and distinguished as those whose names we have mentioned?

Every Copperhead paper in the country has published the lie that General Sigel is supporting Seymour and Blair. The fact is, says an Eastern paper, Gen. Sigel resides at Morrisania N. Y. and is President of their Grant and Colfax Club. Plenty of Germans are fighting on Sigel's side this year. The Copperheads have been saying that Sigel was with them — a great delusion.

The Richmond Dispatch begins to realize the situation. It says: "If Maine shall show a gain, large or small, for the Radicals, Seymour may consider his chances of being a successor to Gen. Washington as small indeed."

BY TELEGRAPH.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Oregon Legislature.

SALEM, Oct 5. In the House Chapman introduced a bill to amend the Charter of the city of Portland. It makes the Mayor, Recorder, Councilmen, Marshal, Attorney, Surveyor, Auditor, etc. elective for two years subject to removal by the Council and Mayor for malfeasance, etc. It makes few other changes in relation to vacation of offices and electing claims against the city, costs and fees in Recorder's Court, etc.

A consideration of a number of bills were introduced, among which were the following:

Gray. A bill requiring express companies and bankers to furnish assessors' sworn statements of deposits.

[illegible]. A bill to limit the official incomes of sheriffs and clerks.

Jackson. A bill amending school laws, prescribing amount of school tax to be levied and requiring certain attributes of voters.

Alexander of Benton. A bill making sheriffs superintendents of bridges.

The joint resolution relating to the taxation of Oregon property in transit to Idaho and Montana was adopted with an amendment, to which the Senate will agree.

The bill granting the consent of the State to the United States to purchase sites for public buildings was passed.

Bill to create a Board of Visiting Physicians for the Insane Asylum was lost 11 to 24. Vote reconsidered and bill referred to Judiciary Committee.

In the Senate Herman offered a memorial to Congress for a mail route from Roseburg to Randolph, which was adopted.

Hendershott, from the Committee on Elections, reported against the right of Sels to a seat from Grant. He introduced a resolution declaring that at the last election there was no vacancy in the office, and that the certificate held by Sels gives him no right. It was made the special order for Wednesday forenoon and Sels was granted leave to appear and show why it should not be adopted.

Hendershott introduced a bill to repeal the act granting aid to the Oregon Central Railroad.

Stout. A bill to prevent the taking of game and trout during certain months.

Bill to change location of county seat of Umatilla county passed the Senate.

FROM THE NORTH

VICTORIA, Oct 5. Further particulars of the Barkerville fire were received here last evening. It is thought the total loss will not exceed $700,000. The total number of buildings destroyed was 116. The following parties are the heaviest losers: Strouss & Co. $100,000; Hudson Bay Co. $60,000; Aller & Barry $18,000; J. H. Todd & Co. $10,000; Adamson & Hurst, $15,000; Loewer & Brun $20,000; Mainetta $6,000; J. Wells, $10,000; A. Campbell $12,000; Greenbaum Bros. $25,000; Cohen & Hillman $[illegible]; Bank of North America $10,000; N. Coons, $44,000; Keroney, Lee & Co., $[illegible]; Castagnetto $35,000; Bank of British Columbia $[illegible]. Strouss & Co. were insured for $40,000. Nearly all the others were uninsured. New buildings at Barkerville are going up [illegible] the prosperity of the country.

STATE ITEMS

O. Jacobs and S. F. Chadwick, candidates for electors on the respective tickets, will open the canvass to morrow (Wednesday) at Canyonville.

Last week a young man named Turner, living in Looking Glass Prairie, Douglas county, accidentally discharged a gun, the ball passing through his shoulder, making a severe wound.

The Roseburg paper says: Not long since a case of "woman stealing" occurred near this place. It seems that one young fellow fell in love, courted, and at last stole his neighbor's wife — with her consent, no doubt. They decamped last week for the Wallamet valley.

The Unionist says: The Pioneer Oil Company had at the Fair Ground, along with the Little Giant, a flax thrasher. This machine is intended to thrash the flax when the straw is to be rotted, and only the head of the flax is run through the machine. It thrashes about five hundred bushels a day, and requires six men to supply it.

The Roseburg Ensign, a short time ago, announced that a man named Edmundson, living in Lane county, formerly a Democrat, would vote for Grant. The Ensign's information was incorrect. Edmundson recently informed the editor that he was a "secessionist" during the war, and of course is a Democrat still. The Ensign therefore takes pleasure in announcing that he is a Seymour and Blair man.

IT IS AN INVARIABLE LAW OF NAture, that every human being shall do those acts which he thinks will secure good to him, and that he shall avoid those acts which may occasion a loss to him or the family he is a member of. In conformity with that law it is the duty of every person to purchase of Kohn & Fishel all the goods they may be in need of. The fair sex, who certainly are always most happy to comply with all things beneficial to themselves and families, should not fail to examine [illegible] stock of Kohn & Fishel, and they will confess their stock of Dry Goods is [illegible] other houses. Men of taste and those calculating [illegible] Kohn & Fishel [illegible] place, and no man should [illegible] unless they are purchased at Kohn & Fishel's.

TO THE ENTERPRISING

Farmers of Oregon!

CASTONS'S X-L-SIOR

BROAD-CAST GRAIN-SOWER.

THIS VALUABLE LABOR-SAVING MACHINE which has already been adopted in nearly every Agricultural county in the State of California and in every county where it has been presented, has been brought to Portland by

who holds the exclusive right to the same for the State of Oregon, and is now ready to accommodate the farmers of this state with machines, and to sell county rights to manufacture the same.

This machine saves the entire cost and labor of sowing a field excepting the cost of a machine, the same team being used for sowing that are used for harrowing, and [illegible] the farmer has by [illegible] and driving his team instead of walking and carrying a heavy sack and then walking and dragging the grain in.

The inventor of this valuable aid to farmers is a man of large experience [illegible] producing a machine which [illegible] the farmer [illegible] sows wheat, barley, oats and peas with greater regularity than the same quantity can be by hand, and at the same time the harrow attached to it [illegible] covers the grain [illegible]. Any intelligent farmer who has ever used [illegible] will readily see that the X-L-SIOR Grain Sower will save its entire cost in labor alone, to say nothing of its saving in seed—in sowing comparatively but few acres, and we have placed an improper estimate upon the enterprise of our Oregon farmers if this machine is not generally adopted in this State as it has already been in California, and where the farmers write to the inventors respecting it after this manner:

> LINCOLN (Placer Co.), Sept. 5, '68.
> Mr. H. A. Caston—Dear Sir: I have two complete machines (X-L-SIOR) which I challenge the State to beat for sowing grain. I have [illegible] fingers in the shaft as you directed but I do not want my machines to sow any better than they do. I have used and gauged them perfectly.
> C. C. TURINGTON.

By addressing or calling upon Mr. Brusie at C. Hopkins' corner of Front and Morrison streets, in this city, machines or County Rights to manufacture and sell the machines can be purchased at reasonable rates.

The Commissioners will meet to-morrow at one o'clock in the afternoon.

BRAINS BROKEN.—On Sunday night a man named Bowers and a Frenchman had a "mill," on opposite the Gem of the Ocean saloon. in pommelling each other the police the combatants and marched them both off to jail. arrived at the calaboose, it was found that had been such a grand rush for that institution that vacant room was left. At the suggestion of an officer took this and the Frenchman to a boarding house where rooms could be had on the public expense. As he and the were entering the court house embankment, and fell against the his shoulder badly. A physician was attended his wounds, and he will soon be able to Judge Hoffman to answer to a the peace. He should have kept

IMPROVED.—Navigation on the Tualatin river has been seriously obstructed by fallen trees and places where it runs through heavily of country. But during the past month Capt. has done a good job in removing many of so that the river is nearly clear to a point over sixty miles from the Willamette. commence the steamer Onward will be put on and will run from Colfax to Emerick's Landing Washington county. To the farmers of that the opening of the Tualatin will be of great advantage and we predict that the Onward will find plenty

SISTERS IN LAW.—Two sisters were "in law" before Justice Work yesterday. Mrs. Kennard, who keeps a saloon in the vicinity known as "Hell's Delight" or "Devil's Row," had her sister, Mollie Ma arrested on a charge of larceny and a preliminary examination showed such state of facts as warranted the Court in discharging the defendant. Mrs. K. is furnishing quite a share of business lately to the courts of the city but does not seem to check her propensity to get into quarrels and go to law.

ESTRAYS.—A large number of cows are being taken up by the Deputy Marshal pursuant to an ordinance of the city. About twenty of these animals were in the pound Monday morning awaiting claimants. Mr. would do well in the dairy business is corralled and two will be offered for sale by the Marshal at noon to-morrow at the corner of Third and Washington streets. Owners of stock ought to thus save trouble and needless expense.

ASH LUMBER.—We noticed on the wharf yesterday a lot of ash lumber of good quality. We learn that it was made at the Canemah mills for E. Caballe, who has been induced to try the San Francisco market with it of Oregon produce. The price of lumber of is such that a sale profit can doubtless be and we may expect that it will become quite an export as the supply is abundant.

THEATRICAL.—Mr. Bates with his theatrical troupe has returned, and will open the New Theatre this evening with two good pieces. The Barrack Room and The Day After the Wedding. success attended them and we hope to see a good house on their return to our midst.

LECTURE TO-NIGHT.—To-night Dr. Wythe delivers the first lecture of the course, at the M. E. Church. body who can should go and everybody who goes will be interested as the lecturer always handles his subject in an able and pleasing manner.

NOTICE.—The Common Council gives notice of the proposed improvement of North Tenth street, between and Everett by grading to the established grade laying side and cross walks.

PREMIUM.—The first premium for boots and shoes at the State Fair was received by Mr. Grabenheim of this city. The articles exhibited by them were very fine deserved the prize.

ATTENTION is called to the advertisement of Caston's X-L-Sior Broad Cast Grain Sowers. These are highly recommended and will doubtless come general use.

TO CONTRACTORS.—To-day the bids for the contract to improve Fifth, Sixth and Jefferson streets will be opened at the office of the Auditor, and the contracts let.

THE PEWS in the Presbyterian church will be rented to-morrow at three o'clock P. M. in the church. wishing to secure pews should be present.

RELIEF SOCIETY.—There will be a meeting of the Ladies' Relief Society to-day at half past two o'clock P. M. basement of the Presbyterian Church.

LICENSES.—City licenses for the present quarter are due. Something like five hundred dollars were paid the city treasury yesterday.

WILL SAIL.—The Stephens will sail for San Francisco 6 A. M. for Victoria via Puget Sound The Active will sail on Thursday

CITY LIFE —Many persons who live in the country have a very erroneous opinion of all the advantages of living in town Heads of families think they can raise their children more easily and better in the city than in the country But when once in the city what a few great mistake What Horace Greeley says of those who should come to in the city and those who should go away applies with equal force all over the land The same class of country bred persons who can sometimes do well in a great city almost from the day they enter it This is the class of the roughly capable, energetic young thrifty mechanics, who have not yet married Let any one of these may drop into the city in March or April, of any prosperous year when work abounds and everything is thriving and find employment at good wages which he may save half, if he will True his will overtake his income if he stays here until surrounded by a swarm of children, but why should he remain so long! If he develops qualities which insure any better paying position and a liberal income he can well take the risk if not, let him be off in season to have all the fruit of country born To rear sons and daughters in the cramped city quarters, on the stinted allowance of a mere journeyman or laborer is not to treat them fairly. Give them air to breathe hills to roam over, and woods to frequent, that they shall grow up in health and vigor The city is hard enough on the poor man, it is entirely too hard on the poor man's wife.

—We have received the following from the Secretary of the Clackamas Base Ball Club In reply to an article in this paper a few days since

OREGON CITY, Oct 3, 1868

EDITOR OREGONIAN In your issue of yesterday, is an article headed in which does injustice to the Clackamas B B Club This club received no challenge from the Pioneer B B Club to meet them at the State Fair nor did they seek the State championship by evading the most skilled club in the State as the sequel has proved

In July last, learning that a premium was offered and that the Pioneers were on the ground in full force as other competitors the undersigned selected nine and entered them by permission of the Secretary of the Agricultural Association, as a "Webfoot Nine" learning that the Pioneers were unwilling to play under such circumstances, the President of the Club, Hon D P Thompson, called a meeting and the former resolution forbidding the club from entering at the State Fair, was rescinded. members of the club, the Captain went and entered the Clackamas first nine, notwithstanding he had not his picked nine there and they without uniform and other necessary equipments not been guilty of unfairness in any of with other clubs and you may rest assured The State championship nor a "fifty dollar would tempt them into so sneaking an action attributed in the article referred to

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts
The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice

Another Irish Grievance

In the Dublin Irishman of September th [illegible] full [illegible] the National [illegible] far as [illegible] that in th s [illegible] of the [illegible] Ireland ad [illegible] with Belmont [illegible] New York [illegible] drafts [illegible] were all [illegible] George H [illegible] had allowed the us [illegible] In July 18 [illegible] $3 200 in paper) was deposited with Belmont who gave his bills on [illegible] on Rothschild One of th [illegible] fell into the hands of the p [illegible] having been endorsed by Mr H [illegible] value The others rea held [illegible] and one of these Mr H [illegible] but the government assumed that the money was intended for Fenian uses and [illegible] Rothschild not to pay the draft wh [illegible] with the order Mr Hopper was [illegible] mitting the use of his name [illegible] this business The parties holding the draft assig [illegible] Mr Lawless the [illegible] prisoners who thus [illegible] presented it and paym [illegible] government [illegible] that it would not interfere nevertheless (the) Rothschilds still refused to pay The draft was protested and it is said that Lawless has instituted suit against Belmont in the American courts for the recovery of the money The history of the one draft [illegible] states, is substantially the history of the others and Belmont's [illegible] of £2 000 or $10 000 in gold were pr [illegible] in London and [illegible] Belmont in New York for repayment he refused to pay over the money

Why Belmont refuses to pay back the money deposited with him we let the Irishman state for itself

"And now comes the part of the story which we confess nothing but the clearest pr [illegible] in fact, of the legal documents could induce [illegible] believe The Messrs H [illegible] the claim in the American courts [illegible] Mr Hopper has been convicted [illegible] therefore that the bill [illegible] erty, is forfeited to the B [illegible] The admit that they have the money they [illegible] that the British Government has made [illegible] for it but they say [illegible] rule British law which forfeits the [illegible] of a person convicted of Fenianism [illegible] fore they will keep the money [illegible] is a manifest absurdity [illegible] if the forfeiture he [illegible] ment could follow the money [illegible] hands bankers of New York [illegible] the Messrs Belmont justice they allege no such [illegible] British Government have made no claim—they have said they never intend to make any But [illegible] Belmont set up to defeat justice an al [illegible] right of the British Crown which the British Government does not itself assert In fact they say this money was given us by Fenians and we will keep it

The Irishman in these details confines it self to those cases in which the editor has seen the papers, but it adds that it has assurances that the aggregate sum held by P [illegible] mont as confiscated Fenian money reaches £10,000, or $50 000 in gold They hold it says the Irishman, on the ground that the Fenians, like the negroes of the South are in the eye of the law, outcasts having no right to enter courts of justice, and being incapable in law of owning money or other property

It will be refreshing to the Irishmen and [illegible] of this country who gave so freely of their money for Ireland to learn that a large portion of it is in New York in the hands of Mr Belmont, and that he has had it for more than three years, and has been able to turn it over two or three times since then for his own profit.

[illegible] Extraordinary—Separation of the Siamese Twins

It is stated that the Siamese twins Chang and Eng, contemplate a visit to Paris for the purpose of having the operation of their physical separation performed Many years ago when the [illegible] was made to them the ascent of [illegible] could not be gained to it One of the brothers was in favor of a dissolution of the partnership of flesh but the other, [illegible] perhaps moved with a sub [illegible] of united des tiny or filial affiliation until death should them sunder stubbornly objected and the laughing knife of the surgeon which had been sharpened for the delectable operation was forced to rust in idleness, guiltless of blood from a dual heart with a single life These twins have been before the public for about 40 years having been brought to England from Siam in 18 7 or 28 by Captain [illegible] now a resident of New York On visiting America they determined to make this land their home, and purchased a farm in North Carolina, on which they settled and have lived there ever since except when they make a occasional tour. They married sisters and one of them is now the father of nine children The scruples of the opposing brother to a surgical operation have lately been overcome it is stated by considerations of old age and probable death either of them. They are now both fifty years old, despite the jovial remark of the larger that he had no way of accounting for the difference in their size except the hypothesis that he was some six months older than his brother The questions that now present themselves to their minds are Should one contract a disease will the other necessarily be affected thereby? Should death ensue in one will it come as a consequence to the other? The prevalent opinion among medical men and the popular impression abroad generally is that while they support two separate physical existences, there is but one set of sensations and mental conditions in a word that there is an entire union of the life principle But there are some men of science who maintain the contrary and who have constantly manifested an itching [illegible] to sunder the mystical tie, that one or the other theory may be proved false It is to a gratification of this desire that the Siamese twins have at length consented [illegible] prove true They have agreed to submit their bodies, perhaps their lives to an experiment which finds a spring in curiosity alone The apprentice who cut open the bellows to see where the wind came from was not half so morbidly affected as are these scientists who desire to pry into the soul at the expense of life in search of that which sustains life What can it matter to the Siamese twins whether they are inseparably joined or not? A few years will prove it If disease or death in the one will inevitably produce [illegible] in the other, then they are physically one and the knife of the Parisian doctor that [illegible] that binds them will be stained with their life's blood If the contrary proves true then they need have no fears from these sources for they are separate existences, and disease in one will not necessarily affect the other [illegible] need not be simultaneous [illegible] years for the gratification of the curiosity of the [illegible] lution of the pr [illegible] plete as the dash of any Fren [illegible] make it

Copenhagen [illegible] Denmark [illegible] it is stated [illegible] ern antiquities in Europe [illegible] seen first the rude instruments of the [illegible] industry when man [illegible] himself sharp instruments made from bone and flint this period being classified as the age of stone another age that [illegible] follows with approximate d [illegible] the ages [illegible] running through [illegible] first epoch beginning [illegible] the middle ages, this medieval period beginning about 1300 and [illegible] Reformation 1536 is reached [illegible] finishes its wonderful treasures with the luxuries of modern times or the Renaissance period coming down to [illegible]

At a meeting in Auburn Maine recently ex Vice President Hamlin said that he had been asked to speak on the duties of the hour "The grass" he continued "has hardly grown up on thousands of graves of the young and brave men of the North slain in defense of the country's rights [illegible] ghastly scars and wounds [illegible] in the [illegible] bellion What would the [illegible] can speak like a wo [illegible]"

EXTINGUISHER

SELF ACTING FIRE ENGINE!

THIS INVENTION HAS FOR ITS OBJECT THE extinguishing of Fires in a more instantaneous manner than has heretofore been discovered

The advantages to be derived from the use of the EXTINGUISHER are as follows

Every fire begins on a small scale and its [illegible] increases owing to the fact that at the time of its commencement (when every moment is [illegible]) [illegible] of the utmost importance [illegible] ready at hand

The EXTINGUISHER is the only Engine that fills this [illegible]

It is always ready for use though standing unused for years

It puts out Fire instantly

It saves [illegible] deluge of water now used for this purpose

It is as effective in the hands of a Boy as the most experienced Fireman

It is portable and as easily handled as a bucket of water

It possesses within itself the power of a forcing pump and as effective as a Steam Engine

[illegible] Kerosene Tar [illegible] and [illegible] in common use
